LIVING ON A FARM. How brightly through the midet of years, My quiet country home appears! My father busy all the day In prowing corn, or raking hay; My mother, moving with delight Among the milk-pans, siver bright; We children just from echool set free, Filling the garden with our gire! The blood of life was flowing warm When I was living on a farm.

I have the sweet che chegoing bell As o'er the field its music felt. I see the country neighbors round Gathering heath the pleasant sound. They stop awhile beside the door. To talk the homely matters o'er— The spring corn, the ripening grain and "how we need a little ran."

The gathering of the husaing oce, To hear the voices keeping tune. Of dirls and boys beneath the mo n. To make the god en corn-a-ris bright, More golden in the yellow light Since I have learned the ways of men, I often tu n to these sgain, And feel life wore its highest charm, When I was iving on the farm.
